PREFACE

This publication provides information on group care for children and youth. Group care includes 24-hour care of children and youth in community-based facilities owned or rented by an agency or corporation which employs child care staff to supervise and offer guidance to the residents. Montana's licensing standards define two categories of group care: a) "group homes" providing care for seven to twelve youth and b) "child care agencies" providing care for thirteen or more youth.

The purpose of this publication is to provide a resource directory of group care services to caseworkers, counselors, court workers, and other interested parties. The size and rural nature of Montana has resulted in resources being spread throughout the state. Full knowledge of all facilities, services, and programs is difficult for youth workers to obtain. This directory should greatly assist in this endeavor. A secondary purpose of this publication is to provide the citizens and decision-makers in Montana with an overview of group care for Montana's children and youth.

The agencies responsible for providing this publication are the Child and Youth Development Bureau and the Social Services Bureau of the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, the Aftercare Bureau of the Department of Institutions, and the Montana Board of Crime Control Juvenile Justice Bureau of the Department of Justice. The information in the directory section was provided by each group care facility. Answers to questions about specific programs or requests for additional information should be sought from the particular program.

HISTORY OF GROUP CARE IN MONTANA

The first "group home" in Montana was the Paul Clark Home, founded in Butte, in 1899. Following the death of his 13 year old son Paul, Senator W. A. Clark put $250,000 in a New Jersey bank as an endowment for a children's home in memory of his son. The Home was incorporated in 1908 as a foster home for ten orphan children ages 12 and above. Senator Clark specified that the Home would be used to care for the children of deceased Butte miners, both boys and girls. The endowment was intended that the Home should operate free of controls from any religious or governmental organizations. (Quote from the Great Falls Tribune 1/3/67).

Other child care facilities began as orphanages and cared for a large number of children. The Montana Deaconess School in Helena (later the Intermountain Deaconess Home for Children) began in 1909 caring for up to 110 children. The Deaconess Home functioned as both a boarding and academic school. In addition to orphans, the home also served children whose families would not otherwise have been able to obtain or afford an education for their children. These children ranged in age from 6 years old through 14 years of age.

The St. Thomas Home in Great Falls was a similar facility to the Deaconess Home. The St. Thomas Home was founded in 1910. "Its purpose is to offer shelter and protection to children without fathers or mothers or both and not only to house these boys and girls, but in so far as possible, offer them the comforts and advantages of a home." (Great Falls Tribune 12/29/35). At the time of the Tribune article, there were 168 children at the St. Thomas Home. These children ranged in age from 8 months through high school. Other facilities of similar intention were the Home of the Good Shepherd in Helena for teenage girls and St. Joseph's Home in Helena, both of which are no longer in existence.

Between 1908 and 1969, little occurred to change the concept of group care in Montana. In 1969, the Aftercare Bureau of the Department of Institutions, directed by John Thomas, redefined group care in Montana as facilities caring for 7 to 12 youth. The first group home under this definition was established in Helena in 1969 at 309 North Rodney, under the administration of the Department of Institutions. Soon after that, this concept of group care was recognized as a valuable resource and House Bill 497 was introduced in the 42nd Montana Legislative Assembly by Representatives Towe, Norman and Nelstad authorizing the establishment of District Youth Guidance Homes. These District Youth Guidance Homes were established with funds from the Montana Board of Crime Control. Until July of 1974, all District Youth Guidance Homes that were in operation were funded by Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration monies received from the Montana Board of Crime Control. Group homes were established with these funds in Billings, Great Falls, Polson, Shelby, Lewistown, Havre, Bozeman, Butte, Miles City and Kalispell. To date, two District Youth Guidance Homes, in Billings and Lewistown, have closed their doors. Some interesting facts about the District Youth Guidance Homes and their history includes the facts that one home was originally established in an old brothel; one was formally housed at a new convent, one home operates on the grounds of an orphanage, and one home opened on beautiful Finley Point at Flathead Lake. Currently, seven of the nine District Youth Guidance Homes are owned by their nonprofit corporations.

The 44th Montana Legislative Assembly took two definitive actions affecting group care in Montana. The first was in funding the five district youth guidance homes at a 75/25 percent funding base, with 75 percent of the funds coming from the State General Fund and 25 percent of the funds coming from the local community. The second was the closing of the Montana Children's Center in Twin Bridges. The Children's Center was developed for dependent and neglected children who are, by Montana law, served by the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services unless committed to the Department of Institutions. For fiscal year 1976, a portion of the Children's Center budget was allocated to the Department of Institutions for continued care of those children who were in the Center when it was closed. There were approximately 54 of those children. Another portion of money, approximately $105,000 was transferred to Social and Rehabilitation Services (SRS) for care in communities for those children who would have been committed to the Children's Center if it remained open. The $105,000 that was allocated to SRS was distributed within the Department with $60,000 per year allocated to the Child and Youth Development Bureau and the remainder to the Social Services Bureau for foster care payments.

The Child and Youth Development Bureau used the state money to match federal money from Title XX of the Social Security Act. The Bureau in a search for innovative treatment programs for youth, decided in the early summer of 1975 to adopt the Achievement Place model from the University of Kansas. The model is a behavioral learning approach to treatment. From April to October of 1975, the local communities were oriented to the Achievement Home model. Local ad hoc task forces studied the need and appropriateness for that model. Three Achievement Homes were funded in the Fall of 1975 by the Child and Youth Development Bureau. Achievement Home facilities are currently in operation in Billings, Great Falls, and Helena. Services were purchased from a fourth group home by the Bureau in July of 1978. The Tom Roy Group Home in Missoula is a co-educational facility with an 8 bed capacity that uses a combination of the behavior management and personal goal management by objectives treatment.

In 1974, a group of dedicated and concerned youth advocates began working on the concept of an Attention Home in Helena. This core group of founding fathers and mothers included representatives from Lewis and Clark County, Juvenile Probation, County Welfare,

District Court, Casey Family Program, Department of Institutions Aftercare Bureau, Child and Youth Development Bureau, Montana Board of Crime Control, Helena High School, Capital High School, Helena Junior High School, clergymen, private businessmen and women, human services workers, mental health professionals, and other private citizens. After much hard work, this group obtained funding for the project primarily from Montana Board of Crime Control and Lewis and Clark County.

Many of these original founding partners went on to serve on the first Attention Home Board of Directors after the organization was incorporated in 1974. On August 5, 1974, they saw their dream turn into a reality when the Attention Home opened its doors to the public. Since that time over 800 youth between the ages of 12 and 18 have received short-term, emergency shelter from the Attention Home. The concept of the Attention Home is to provide shelter services to youth who are in need of a temporary place to stay. The basic philosophy of the program is "attention and advocacy, not detention". Adolescents are placed in attention homes as an alternative to placement in jail; as an alternative to leaving them on the streets; as an alternative to poor home environments; and as an alternative to placement in institutions.

The history of group care in Montana has been primarily one of movement from large facilities caring for children to one of residential community based facilities for children.

FUNDING OF GROUP CARE

Funding of Montana group care facilities now is primarily provided by the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, the Department of Institutions, and private donations. Board of Crime Control, United Way, USDA, and some probation offices also contribute to the cost of operations. The financial involvement of these parties are described below.

Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services: (SRS)

The Social Services Bureau pays a monthly rate for approximately 250 children in all group homes and child care agencies in Montana. This cost is shared with the county of residence and is provided for children in the custody of SRS for reasons of neglect, abuse, or need of supervision. The annual expenditure by SRS for monthly payments for children in group care is approximately $1,000,000, which is derived from federal, state, and county dollars.

The Child and Youth Development Bureau contracts with four group homes using the Achievement Home model for treatment of "youth in need of care" or "youth in need of supervision". This Bureau contracts for treatment of 24 youth annually and expends approximately $150,000 per year for these services. These funds are 75% federal and 25% state.

Department of Institutions, Community Corrections Bureau:

The Community Corrections Bureau pays a monthly rate for youth under its supervision who are placed in group care. These youth are "youth in need of supervision" or "delinquent youth" and are committed to the Department of Institutions by district courts. Most of these youth are in group homes rather than child care agencies due to the limited budget. Community Corrections Bureau expends approximately $475,000 annually in state funds for group care of youth.

The Community Corrections Bureau also operates 4 aftercare group homes for care of youth under its supervision. The annual cost of these 4 homes is approximately $192,000. These are state funds and are included in the $475,000 figure above.

Another source of funding from the Community Corrections Bureau is grants to nine District Youth Guidance Homes throughout the state. The grants are approximately $26,500 each and total approximately $238,000. These funds are state dollars that are utilized for operations of the homes. They, too, are included in the $475,000 above.

Shelter care monies are also administered by the Community Corrections Bureau. These funds are for direct purchase of short-term care for youth under the supervision of the Community Corrections Bureau or local probation officers. These funds are used primarily for youth placed in attention homes in lieu of jail detention. Some youth are in shelter care for other crisis intervention or awaiting long-term placement. This expenditure in FY 79 was approximately $166,000 for 659 shelter care placements, $98,000 are state funds and $78,000 are federal funds.

Montana Board of Crime Control: (MBCC)

The MBCC's monies initiated many of the group care facilities in our state. Their current funding supplements group care through purchasing supportive services to enhance existing facilities. Examples are the funding of grants to local communities for group care administrators, psychological services, and supplemental funding to Department of Institutions. Last year MBCC spent approximately $160,000 for group and shelter care. MBCC provides 1/3 of the funding to operate the state's shelter care facilities (included in above paragraph on shelter care as $78,000 federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds).

ACHIEVEMENT HOMES

Long-term (usually no maximum length of stay) care, custody and treatment. Accept "youth in need of care" (abused or neglected), or "youth in need of supervision" (status offenders). Operated by local non-profit corporations. Licensed capacity of eight youth.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The purpose of the Billings Achievement Place Teaching Family Program is to help youth who have been described as "in need of care/supervision." In some manner their behavior is disturbing to their family, school or community because the past environment has failed to provide the instructions, examples and feedback necessary to develop appropriate behaviors. The philosophy of treatment includes (1) family-style living; (2) systematic individualized treatment; (3) community control and basis for the program and (4) periodic evaluation of the program all in the effort to return the client to the original place of conflict and succeed.

The program accepts the following youth: Youth in need of care and youth in need of supervision; status offenders; youth with a supportive family living in the area; (most common behaviors: academic failure, thieving, vandalism, truancy, drug abuse, defiance, physical and verbal aggression).

The program will not accept adjudicated delinquents, out-of-area youth, youth without families or alternative living situations that will cooperate with the program.

The program will not take youth on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The Achievement Place teaching and counseling philosophy centers around the use of four basic social skills:

1. Following Instructions
2. Appropriate Response to Criticism
3. Control Over Social Behaviors When Under Emotional Stress
4. Rational Problem-Solving.

The main goal of the program is to teach both youth and their parents these skills; monitor their joint practice of these skills and return the youth to his home; or teach the youth these skills plus independent living skills and work them into independence within the community.

A wide range of behavioral problems are acceptable as long as the youth will voluntarily participate and it is possible to gain cooperation. Entry criteria are the following:

- Voluntary
- Parents must agree to participate a minimum of 1½ hours a week
- Youth must have workable home, foster home or independent living situation to return to on weekends to practice skills learning during the week.
- Youth must be of "normal" intelligence - capable of participating in mainstream public school program
- Youth must attend school

- For independent living program, youth must be close to 17 years of age
- Independent living goaled youth may be accepted if that goal seems practical with one-year program period
- Parents must be within commuting distance to participate in counseling sessions as well as pick up and return youth on weekends.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The Home functions as an alternative to more restrictive environments by providing group care within a community context. We attack the issues or problems of our residents as a cooperative effort of youth and staff member and approach them with a three pronged effort. We use a modified token economy to provide a behavioral structure within which the youth must live. We provide a goal management system to help the youth realize their potentials and to offer the opportunity for the youth to get/gain access to socially acceptable roles. Finally, we use a live-in staff to provide the youth a nurturing and caring environment.

The Tom Roy Home works with the family-troubled youth. Most of the youth we serve are placed with us due to status behavior; running away, truancy, ungovernability. In addition to this presenting problem, we seem to work with a number of moderately to significantly emotionally disturbed youth. The Home, with its tight structure and aggressive developmental program, has had good success with the habitual offender.

The Home has no means of keeping youth physically secure and, therefore, will accept no violent offenders. Given the nature of the staffing pattern (i.e. live-in staff) the Home cannot work with the hyperactive, attention demanding youth. Finally, we are not able to provide community services for the severely retarded youth.

The Home does not take youth on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The basic program philosophy is "Attention and Advocacy, Not Detention." The program emphasizes personal attention to each youth. In addition the program provides good role modeling and attempts to create a family and home-like atmosphere. Through the use of a loosely structured social learning model the residents are taught more appropriate forms of behavior.

The Attention Home cannot take youths who have a history of violent behavior, either towards themselves or others. The home and staffing patterns are not designed for seriously emotionally disturbed youth or youth taking behavior-modifying medication.

The program will take youth on an emergency basis.

Anaconda, MT 59711

SRS AUTHORIZED
RATE: $543

LENGTH OF STAY: 90 days maximum

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The purpose of Discovery House is to provide a comfortable and homelike atmosphere that allows the youth the opportunity to deal with the problems that he or she must confront. Discovery House provides care for the needs of youth in crisis and gives them the opportunity to deal with problems with themselves, their peers, adults, and authorities. Further, the philosophy is to help young people with their families and with the placing agency to decide upon a future course of action.

The program will not accept youth that are taking drugs or alcohol or youth that present a danger to themselves or others.

LENGTH OF STAY: 30 days with one (1) 15-day extension

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

Behind the "attention home approach" is the belief that much of juvenile "acting out" is a cry for help, just as real for being largely unconscious. By paying attention the Home is established to attempt to discover some keys to the youth's problems and suggest solutions and, later develop the resources and referrals to meet these needs. During the youth's stay we attempt to offer an open and trusting environment as is possible in order to determine the level of functioning of the youth and to give each youth the chance to begin to turn his or her life around.

The Missoula Attention Home works with youth who are in crisis by virtue of what they have done or what has been done to them. The problems of these youth may run from being the victim of abuse or neglect through the status offenses (our major target problem) and into the minor delinquency areas.

The program will not accept the youth in need of physical restriction nor a youth who poses an obvious threat to the person or property of others. Staffing also limits us from taking the youth who is a real danger to him or herself.

The program does take youth on an emergency basis.

SRS AUTHORIZED
RATE: $642

LENGTH OF STAY: 15 days for runaways
60 days for all others

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The Runaway Attention Home is a short-term facility which serves youth in crisis on a general level. Specifically we serve runaway or homeless youth with the aim of returning them to their natural home through counseling or, if not feasible, seek appropriate alternatives. The program also serves youth who are awaiting placement or court. We are able to provide an alternative to jail and allow youths to remain in a homelike community setting. We believe youth and parents have rights which need to be respected and the crisis resolved in the best interests of the entire family as well as the youth.

The program does not accept youth with suicidal history, history of acts such as assault, rape, murder, etc. where other youth would be endangered. We do not accept youth who have repeatedly done poorly in our program or committed a violent act while here in the home.

The program generally deals with status offenders from first time offenders to chronic. We also accept YINS and delinquent youth with non-violent histories, drug users, child abuse and neglect victims.

The Attention Home takes youth on an emergency basis.

CHILD CARE AGENCIES

Long-term (usually no maximum length of stay) care, custody and treatment for primarily "youth in need of care" (abused or neglected), or "youth in need of supervision" (status offenders, i.e., incorrigible, truant, curfew violations, runaway, promiscuous or possession of alcohol). Accept some "delinquent youth". Some agencies have many treatment levels (i.e., Yellowstone Boys Ranch), some are specialized (i.e., Florence Crittenton). All are privately operated and are licensed to serve more than 12 youth in residence.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The Cheyenne Home is a state licensed child caring facility for Native American boys and girls from ages three to eighteen whose families are experiencing particular difficulty or who, themselves, are in need of the special programs which Cheyenne Home offers. After an initial period of assessing the child's emotional, physical, spiritual and educational needs, Cheyenne Home offers the child various group home settings whose goal is to meet those needs in such a way as to allow the children to return to the main stream of society. The length of time a child remains in Cheyenne Home depends upon his individual needs and situations. The goals of Cheyenne Home are implemented by skilled, caring bi-cultural staff members.

Any Native American youth referred for services is considered on an individual needs basis. Appropriate referrals would include family adjustment problems, socialization problems, poor peer relations, and other acting out or neurotic behaviors not requiring a medical model or lock-up facility. All youth would be considered, regardless of problems, on Cheyenne Home's ability to meet their needs.

The Cheyenne Home does not serve extremely disturbed youth who require a medical model or lock-up facility. Severe psychosis cases will not be accepted. Youth determined to be in need of structure beyond what a group home houseparent model could provide would not be viable referrals.

The Cheyenne Home does not usually take youth on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The Intermountain Deaconess Home for Children provides individual and group counseling to youth directed toward teaching behavioral skills necessary to be successful -- self-maintenance skills, social skills, academic skills. We serve youth who have learned maladaptive skills, utilizing the Achievement Place Teaching Family method.

The home accepts children who are emotionally disturbed, withdrawn, predelinquent, unable to be controlled in their families for a variety of reasons (ungovernable youth), children who have severe defects in social-emotional skills, learning disabilities, borderline retarded and status offenders.

The home will not accept children with history of serious violence to others; autistic children, severely retarded, girls with a history of chronic runaway, youth who are seriously delinquent (heavily invested in a delinquent value system and delinquent behavior, with no desire to change, who need closed programs to interrupt delinquent behavior patterns, provide strong limits and protect the community).

The home does accept children on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

With a reality based program we try to enable the students to improve their own images. We provide alcohol and drug counseling and education. The students are required to attend school and we have a tutor available three times a week to help the students. We are also making family counseling available to those who have families. If a student does not have a family, we work with the social service agency to find appropriate foster placements.

The program is funded under a NIAAA grant. Our program is set up to deal with children who come from an alcoholic environment and/or have an alcohol or drug problem. This also includes working with the families of the students on a family involvement basis.

The program does not serve severely emotionally disturbed children or nonalcohol or drug related problems.

The program does take youth on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

Assessment procedures employed are drawn from several disciplines or perspectives, and designed to consider and to evaluate the multiple factors that may be a part of each individual case. The Assessment Center staff believe the most important function for an assessment program is to develop realistic, comprehensive treatment planning for each individual child.

The Youth Assessment Center provides services to youngsters between the ages of five and eighteen for whom difficult treatment and/or placement decisions must be made. Facilities are available to evaluate and plan appropriate treatment for a wide range of behavior disorders including conduct and personality disturbances, childhood thought disorders, learning disabilities and cerebral disturbances.

The Youth Assessment Center will take youth on an emergency basis.

RATE: $300

LENGTH OF STAY: Maximum length of stay is until High School graduation completion

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The philosophy is to give boys an opportunity to finish high school, give them an opportunity to learn independent living skills, and give them the opportunity to "make it on their own" while having a support system available. The apartment gives them the opportunity to fail, but have someone available to help them work through their failure and continue to grow and learn. Teaching youth full responsibility and self-worth is one of the main purposes of the apartment.

The pre-independent living apartment program accepts those youths who demonstrate mature, responsible behavior and an ability to function with minimal supervision. The youths are psychologically intact, have successfully used the Boys Ranch program and deserve the opportunity to live in the community.

The program does not accept youths with severe physical handicaps and mental retardation, extremely immature and irresponsible youths.

The program does not take youth on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The services offered are basically the same as those offered on the Ranch campus. Each child has an individualized treatment plan, psychotherapy is provided if needed, social skills are taught, psychiatric reviews are held, etc. But, in addition, each child is encouraged to participate in community activities of all kinds -- public school, community jobs, recreational activities, cultural activities, religious programs, etc.

The program accepts youths who need a short-term placement, testing ground, and final preparation before returning home or going into another placement. Group homes are a place for a child to live until he is ready to move on to a form of independent living. The youths are psychologically intact, have successfully progressed through the Boys Ranch campus program and have earned the opportunity to live in the community.

The program will not accept severely physically handicapped or mentally retarded youth.

The program will not accept youth on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The program is characterized by commitment to several important principles. It is assumed that behavior is multiply determined. A child's conduct can only be understood by referring to its biological, social, historical and psychological determinants. No single model is sufficiently broad to allow a thorough understanding of human behavior. Therefore, we draw from several disciplines or perspectives in order to consider the multiple factors that may be a part of each individual case. From this information, then we are able to develop realistic, comprehensive treatment planning for each individual child.

The program serves those youths who have learning disabilities, neurological impairment, and varying degrees of emotional problems. Intermediate treatment is for those youths who are moderately disturbed.

The program does not serve those youngsters who are severely emotionally disturbed, have severe physical handicaps and mental retardation.

The program does not take youth on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

In a family-like setting with understanding, guidance and discipline, each troubled girl resides; making use of community agencies according to individual needs and treatment plans, and staying long enough to work on her problems -- i.e. develop more positive attitudes and behavior, and work out the most appropriate plan for her future after release from the home.

The program will not accept the following: girls pregnant at time of admission; severely retarded; youth who will not attend school or some type of alternative educational program such as Vo Tech or CEP; girls whose emotional problems are such that she needs more than one hour per week of professional counseling.

The program will accept youth with behavior problems under "youth in need of supervision", adjudicated delinquent behavior which can be handled in community setting without excessive counseling and supervisory demands. Girls who have been in Mountain View who need to adjust to community living before returning home or to independent living.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The structure of the home allows for control of the youth until the youth develops the ability to control him or herself. The major treatment effort is designed to attack a poor self-concept and, through a program of intensive goal development and management, assist the youth to grow as a person. The live-in staff is available to provide the nurturing and caring necessary to meet the youth's needs for security and stability that will enable him or her to reach out into the unknown and attack personal problems and issues.

The Youth Guidance Home works with the seriously delinquent youth with repeated felony behavior. The program also works with the persistent status offender, who is out of the control of his or her parents.

The Youth Guidance Home will not accept the violent offender nor the youth in need of continual supervision, around-the-clock. The program is also not geared toward the severely emotionally disturbed youth.

The home will not take a youth on an emergency basis.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

Our program structure offers clearly defined behavioral expectations based on societal norms and laws. This consistency is coupled with equally clear consequences for behavior. This structure, in conjunction with staff caring and modeling behavior and exposure to various positive community experiences, offers the youth a choice regarding future life-style. We encourage self-reliance by providing graduated levels of freedom and responsibility as rewards for increasingly responsible behavior. This is done through the Point/Level System. Average weekly points earned determine level of freedom and responsibility assigned.

Our primary behavior requirement is that the youth function well enough to be able to participate in either an employment or educational setting within the community. We accept delinquent youth, status offenders and victims of abuse and/or neglect.

We do not believe our facility or structure will enable us to accept youth with a serious physical disability. We also do not have the staff to monitor closely enough violent and/or self-destructive behavior and psychotic behavior.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The Teen Home is a family oriented group home for youth who have been adjudicated by the Youth Court as delinquent or youth in need of supervision. Twenty-four hour care is provided. Youth under the age of 16 are required to attend public school as required by the State. Older youth may attend other educational facilities and/or work part-time. Youth are encouraged to participate in recreation programs, family activities and church.

We have a Youth Committee that works with each youth in an on-going self-evaluation and improvement program. Disciplinary action for rule violations are handled on an individual basis by the home parents - may include restrictions, extra duties, loss of allowance or in some cases removal from the home.

The program serves status offenders, runaways, truants, youth from troubled families and delinquent behavior which is not persistent.

The program will not serve chronic drug and alcohol abuse offenders, youth with assault/aggressive behavior, deviant sexual behavior or anti-social-sociopathic. The program will not accept any youth who refuses to participate in educational or work-educational programs.

LENGTH OF STAY: 12 months maximum

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The RITZ program is set up to give a structured residential treatment to emotionally disturbed adolescents who are in need of treatment not as structured as that in an institution and yet with a therapeutic program and structured living situation unlike that found in most group homes. The RITZ is also set up to help those adolescents re-enter the community structure and enjoy a successful living experience upon their return.

The RITZ accepts adolescents who are severely emotionally disturbed but can be controlled on medication. The RITZ is also able to handle those adolescents that have a brief history of delinquent behavior such as runaways, truancy from school, and those who have had minor problems with the police as it is associated with some form of psychological conflict. Individuals whose behaviors are not considered dangerous to themselves and others are able to be taken care of in the RITZ.

The RITZ is unable to accept any adolescents that have a long history of continual delinquent behavior including violence toward themselves or others, sexual molesting of younger children, or a severe problem with drugs, those adolescents who are actively psychotic and can be considered a danger to themselves and others, and need a more secure environment.

The RITZ does not take youth on an emergency basis.

LENGTH OF STAY: No Maximum

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The program is characterized by commitment to several important principles. It is assumed that behavior is multiply determined. A child's conduct can only be understood by referring to its biological, social, historical and psychological determinants. No single model is sufficiently broad to allow a thorough understanding of human behavior. Therefore, we draw from several disciplines or perspectives in order to consider the multiple factors that may be a part of each individual case. From this information, then, we are able to develop realistic, comprehensive treatment planning for each individual child.

Youth served at this level are those whose behavior is so inappropriate that they are no longer able to adapt to family, school, and/or community settings even with the best of out-patient and community services. Terminology for these youth includes: autistic, thought disordered, schizophrenic, learning disabled, character disorder, etc.

The Program does not accept youth with severe physical handicaps and mental retardation. Youth are not taken on an emergency basis.

LENGTH OF STAY: Maximum initial stay of 30 days - provisions for exceptions in individual cases.

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

The Billings Children's Receiving Home provides high quality therapeutic program focused on short-term shelter care for troubled youth who are in obvious need of temporary residential services. It is the goal of the program to prepare the youth for more permanent placement by providing behavioral skills training, offering counseling and guidance, and identifying individual strengths and weaknesses in order to advocate on behalf of the youth.

The program serves those youth who can make at least minimal adjustment in a community setting but who still need the structure, guidance and intervention offered by the professional staff. They include youth placements, and those for whom other interim placement may be inappropriate or unavailable. Youth accepted would typically be considered status offenders, pre-delinquent, delinquent, mildly to moderately neurotic or character disordered, and minimally thought disordered.

The program will not serve youth with serious physical limitations, who require extraordinary close supervision for medical or security reasons, who are unable to function in a community setting, or who have an I.Q. of less than 70.

The home is set up as a temporary care facility for abandoned, abused, or neglected children. Because of our program, case workers, judges or what agency are able to take time to make a more permanent placement. We try to provide a "family" type facility for our children until they are placed in a permanent situation.

We are not licensed to accept severe mentally retarded, handicapped or emotionally disturbed children, We cannot accept "hard-core" delinquents, due to the fact that we serve very young clients. Each child must have a caseworker in order to be placed in our home.

SRS AUTHORIZED

RATE: $768

LENGTH OF STAY: No Maximum

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM:

Watson's Receiving Home offers 24-hour emergency care for children 0-12 years of age. It is our goal to provide a homelike situation that will foster within each child a sense of security and a feeling of belonging somewhere during a time of family crisis and turmoil. Each child is enrolled in a program designed to stimulate their emotional intellectual and physical growth and help each child develop a good self-image.

The program will accept children with emotional problems below the age of 12 as long as there is no violent outburst that would cause injury to other children.

The program will not accept runaway youth or children that are severely disturbed.

Children are accepted on an emergency basis.

SERVICES PROVIDED BY THE PROGRAM:

- Social Services - Pre-school & Kindergarten

SERVICES PROVIDED BY THE LOCAL COMMUNITY:

- Psychological Services - Social Services
- Elementary School

INDEPENDENT LIVING HOME

Long-term (one year) program for older youth who will not be returning to their family or to an alternative living arrangement such as foster care. This is a new concept in Montana. Accepts youth who are ready to become emancipated. The program teaches skills to youth who will soon be living on their own.
